NOTES.

This Return is arranged in four sections, viz. :—

Occupying pages

Stamps and Taxes (including certain duties at first classed as Miscellaneous, but subsequently falling under these heads) - - - - -	3 to 58
Customs Duties - - - - -	59 to 78
Excise Duties - - - - -	79 to 99
Excise Licences - - - - -	100 to 138

The amounts of "Yield" entered in pages 3 to 58 of this Return are those of Net Receipt, i.e., the gross amount of duty received within the year, less the repayments, discounts, and other allowances to taxpayers within the year.

The yields of Stamp Duty and Income Tax in the three countries do not necessarily represent the respective contributions to the Revenue of the United Kingdom. The Stamp Duties paid in one country may refer to financial or commercial transactions elsewhere. This remark applies with special force to England and Scotland, the duties in Great Britain being generally uniform. In the case of Income Tax, which appears in the return for the years 1842-43 to 1852-53 inclusive, it may be observed that, amongst other reasons, many large financial and trading concerns are assessed in places (notably in the Metropolis) other than those in which their operations are carried on, and the salaries and pay of officers of the Army and Navy and Civil Service are mainly assessed in London, without regard to where the officers may be serving.

See also Notes on pages 59 and 79.

EXCISE DUTIES.

NOTE.—The amounts of "Yield" entered in this Return are, with a few exceptions in certain years, those of Net Receipt, i.e., the gross amount of duty received within the year, less the repayments, drawbacks, and other allowances to taxpayers within the year. Where Net Receipt figures were not available the amount of duty charged has been entered and the fact noted against the entries in the Return. The difference in these cases between "net receipt" and "duty charged" is but slight, and would have practically no effect on the comparability of the figures.

* In 1850 the rates on licences to use stills were made uniform in the three countries. In 1870 the licences for Makers of stills (Scotland and England) were repealed. Total yield about 100,000 gallons.

† New regulations made in England and Ireland only. "On" licences were granted to contain allowances for only 1000 gallons.

‡ Licences in Great Britain transferred from Taxes in 1890, and rates made uniform in the three countries with the exception of Gamekeepers (whole year 3l. in Ireland, but 2l. plus made service licence duty in Great Britain). The difference involved being very small, these houses are omitted in subsequent years.
